The House of Lanson was founded in 1760 by Francois Delamotte. After Mr Delamotte passed away Jean-Baptiste Lanson took over and changed the name to Maison J-B Lanson et Compagnie. Jean Baptiste worked to develop the business outside France and particularly in Great Britain. He signed an exclusive agent's contract with Percy Fox Company in London. The contract lasted 100 years and gave Lanson a dominant position in Great Britain. Lanson has been the official supplier to the British court since 1900, when Henri Marie Lanson was awarded the title of "Purveyor of Champagne to Her Majesty" by Queen Victoria.
